

852 DINING

NEW AND NOTED
with Adele Wong

COMING UP

Eat, Drink, Rattle

Like fish? Like rice wine? Like watching really huge dudes slap the heck out of each other? Then you'll love Sumo Sushi Sake.

This whole-day food-and-drink festival will have stalls from Japanese restaurants all over town—and 100 kinds of sake. It's taking place on the grounds of the Indian Recreation Club. And yes, there will in fact be sumo wrestling.

Nov 23. See New and Noted, p.30.

...and Noted

Sumos? Sushi? Sake? Now we're talkin'. Sumo Sushi Sake (www.sumosushisakehk.com) will be a full day of eating, drinking and live entertainment: a hot dog and sushi eating contest are both in the cards, not to mention several sumo wrestling matches. Take your pick from more than 100 types of sakes, many of which aren't currently available in Hong Kong, and sample dishes from participating Japanese restaurants around town. Nov 23, noon-11pm. 63 Caroline Hill Rd., Causeway Bay, right across from the Hong Kong Stadium. Tickets go on sale this week, starting from $280 per head. Check website for details.

Email me at adele.wong@hkmagmedia.com or follow me on Twitter: @adele_hklife.